

Eric Paul Zamora / The Fresno Bee
Matthew Sanchez, 7, climbs the rope bridge at the newly dedicated Polk playground.

Polk community playground dedicated

The Fresno Bee

02/24/07 04:06:33

Central Unified School District and the Foundation for Central Schools officially dedicated the new community playground at Polk Elementary School on Friday morning. The McCaffrey Group pledged $50,000 to Project Play, a capital campaign started in the spring of 2006 by the Foundation for Central Schools to fund playground equipment for Central Unified's elementary schools. This new playground will be open to the public during nonschool hours, according to a statement by the Central Unified School District.

Eric Paul Zamora / The Fresno Bee
Jordan Fisher, 6, center right, takes it all in as children seated for the ceremony sing the Polk welcome song during the dedication.